Pleasanton Activates Cooling Center
Senior Center Open to all Seeking Relief from Heat

PLEASANTON, Calif. — The City of Pleasanton today activated its public cooling center at the Senior Center. The cooling center will remain active through Thursday, June 22, 2017 for those seeking relief from the heat as temperatures are expected to soar past the century mark.

The Pleasanton Senior Center at 5353 Sunol Boulevard is the primary cooling center location and operating hours are from noon to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Visitors can enjoy an air-conditioned facility, have a glass of cool water, play games and watch television at the center while they stay out of the extreme heat.

Please be sure to drink plenty of water and minimize strenuous activity during the peak heat hours of the afternoon, and consider wearing light-colored clothing. For more information, please call the Community Services Department at 925-931-5340.
